

Content Management System Evaluation Checklist

By Adam Hughes

- Your Organization
 - Sector. In which business field do you operate?
 - Fiscal Model. Are you for-profit or non-profit?
 - Size. How many people are in your organization?
 - Revenue Sources. Will you be selling goods or services online?
- Your Target Audience
 - Is your website audience internal or external to your organization?
 - Customer type. Will your website target businesses or individuals?
 - Income. What is the basic income level of your audience?
 - Motivation. Will site visitors be looking to make a purchase, learn something, or interact?
 - Demographics. Evaluate typical visitor age, gender, race, ethnicity, and geographic location.
 - Tech Savvy. What do your visitors expect from a website?
 - Communication. How does your audience prefer to communicate?
- Your Administrative Users
 - Responsibility. Who will build and maintain your content management system website?
 - Scope. How many departments will make content updates?
 - Tech Savvy. How much training will staff require to administer the CMS?
 - Scope. Will upper management access administrative functions?
- Your Website Project
 - Budget. How much can you spend?
 - Timeline. When do you need to start and complete your website implementation?
 - Scope. What functionality do you need from your website?
 - Staff. How much employee time can you devote to a CMS project?
- Potential Content Management Systems
 - Price. How much do the software and associated licenses cost?
 - Technology. Is the CMS hosted, or will you need servers and IT staff?
 - Mobile Friendly. Does the CMS work on tablets and smart phones?
 - Open Source. Is the CMS source code available?
 - Customers. What organizations are currently using the CMS?

- Community. Does the software vendor provide a forum or mailing list for customer interaction?
- Support. How does the vendor help resolve customer problems?
- Training. What options exist for helping staff learn your CMS?
- Security. Can you limit access to certain parts of the content management system?
- Expandability. Can you add administrative users without incurring additional costs?